

NEW LAUNDRY OPENS MONDAY, JUNE 9, WITH MODERN EQUIPMENT

Big Payroll Added To Community Income

GRUTZMACHER PRE- DICTS GLOWING FU- TURE FOR NEW IN- DUSTRY.

"We predict a business of $2000 the first week. It will increase and become probably the largest business in Antioch. We will start with a payroll of forty. We have the most modern equipment the laundry business produces," so stated E. A. Grutzmacher, manager of the Chain O' Lakes Laundry.

A trip through the new laundry convinced the writer that Mr. Grutzmacher knows the laundry business and knows what he is talking about.

The Chain O'Lakes Laundry is to become a reality in operation next Monday, just at the beginning of the rush season. The officials maintain that they have struck a gold mine in the form of a soft water well. They maintain that they have water that has the lowest percentage of hardness in the state, in fact it contains only a small amount of dissolved lime stone which is easily removed by heating. They maintain that it will be unnecessary to use any harsh water softeners required in other laundries. This will add to the length of the life of the clothes.

No Marks Necessary
Equipment is installed to care for 67 family washings each in a separate compartment of its own thus making it unnecessary to mark any of the family wash. The clothes undergo eleven changes of water. Larger compartments are provided for hotel and institutional laundry.

No Shrink to Woollens
Special compartments are provided for woolen goods in order to prevent wearing and shrinking which so commonly happens. Only neutral soaps are necessary.

After being cleaned the clothes are put in the drying extractor which removes 80% of the moisture in 8 minutes. The remainder of the moisture is removed in the tumblers.

The large 17 ton Watts ironer will care for two tons of flat work in nine hours. The family presses and shirt and collar presses are the last word in their line.

Quick Service
Arrangements have been made to furnish one day service in emergency cases, and rapid service is guaranteed to all. Six solicitors will be on the trucks from the beginning, thus assuring the community of close attention.

The Klein building, 896 North Main has been secured for office purposes. Carpenters have been remodeling it making it suitable for such purpose.

The large oil heated 125 H. P. boiler will furnish the steam for the presses and heat the water for the washers. The company is installing its own generator that will furnish power and light for the plant thus greatly reducing the cost.

Buys Morley Property
Geo. E. Orr announced today that he had purchased for the Laundry Co., the entire Morley property facing Main street and all interests in undeveloped property lying in a westerly direction adjoining the laundry property as well as Mr. Morley's interests in the lot purchased from the hotel corporation. Mr. R. C. Aht acted as broker.

Mr. Orr states that they will commence very shortly the erection of a modern dry cleaning plant to serve not alone the people of the Chain O' Lakes region, but will go after the small order dry cleaning business.

The Laundry and Dry Cleaning plant when in full operation will be an enterprise that Antioch may well be proud of and it will furnish a payroll that has long been needed. The residents of this community should back the proposition to the fullest extent.

Those who have been actively engaged in bringing the enterprise to completion are C. D. Foth, Attorney-in-fact, Geo. E. Orr, financial engineer, and E. A. Grutzmacher, superintendent. They have encountered

ENGLISH PRAIRIE TO DEDICATE SUPERIOR SCHOOL BUILDING

The people of English Prairie school district are soon to be the proud possessors of the equal of any school in the state. The dedication will take place Friday, June 13. A full program starting at 10:30 and continuing the remainder of the day has been planned. A basket lunch will be served at noon supplemented by a stand on the grounds.

State Superintendent F. G. Blair will be on hand for the address of the day at two o'clock. U. G. Hoffman, state supervisor of rural schools will also have a part in the program.

The Richmond Grade school orchestra under R. H. Aldrich will be on hand to furnish the music. Many former and present local residents will offer greetings some of whom are: F. L. Hatch, Mrs. Jas. Winn, Mrs. Lewis Cole, E. V. Orvis, and Byron Orvis. Games will be played before and after the program.

Lillian A. Severing of Woodstock and a graduate of DeKalb Normal is the teacher and has been reemployed by the Board which consists of G. H. Cole, Pres., Leon Van Every, clerk, and Howard Christensen.

Antioch Business Club To Hold Meeting at Clark's Restaurant

Antioch Business Club Monday evening at 6:45 at Clark's Restaurant. Reserve place with J. C. James not later than Monday morning.

Boy Scouts Need Financial Help

For the first time in five years the Antioch community is asked to contribute funds in behalf of the Lake County Boy Scout work. Our community is endeavoring to raise the sum of $300.00, about half of which will remain in our own community for the benefit of our local troop No. 81 in which there are at present enrolled 30 boys of Antioch. Our troop being the largest in the entire County Council of about 25 troops.

The men of Antioch who are sponsoring this financial drive are: Rex Bonser, chairman of finance committee; Philip T. Bohl, scout master; S. Boyer Nelson, assistant scout master; Dr. R. D. Williams, chairman troop committee; L. M. Wetzel, Geo. Bartlett and Robert Aht. The members of this committee are contributing their time and interests to this worthy cause, as well as making other donations. They earnestly solicit your co-operation and support in their endeavors. Do not wait to be personally solicited. Contributions may be mailed to Mr. Bonser, the chairman, or may be left at the place of business of the respective members of the committee. Large or small donations will be much appreciated.

The interests of scouting are not devoted primarily to recreation. More and more its emphasis is being placed upon character education. It is sponsored by no one religious creed or denomination. Catholic, Jewish and Protestant boys can and do unitedly embrace the ideals set forth by scouting. Before any boy can become an enrolled scout he takes upon himself the promise to abide by the following rules of conduct; to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, clean, brave, and reverent. An investment in scouting is an investment in the future manhood of America. President Hoover most heartily endorses its program. He has made the statement that if it were within his power he would make it compulsory that every boy should have at least one year of scouting experience.

C. L. Kuttl, instructor of Vocational Agriculture at the Antioch High school will speak on "The Future Farmer Movement in America."

Charley Farley, a student from DeKalb, will also be on the program. Tune in and hear your local boys.

SIFT MOTIVES IN GANG SLAYINGS; 8TH VICTIM DIES

Three Are Killed in Fox Lake Resort—Two Wounded May Die

MACHINE GUNS ARE USED IN MASSACRE

With the motive for eight gang slayings remaining a matter of speculation, authorities in Lake and Cook counties today were continuing their investigation into the alleged Capone-Moran feud which assumed a wholesale murder aspect early Sunday with the massacre of three gangsters at the resort of James L. Manning at Fox Lake.

Dead Are Known Gangsters
Sam Pelliar, a 20th ward election terrorist of the Valley district in Chicago; Michael Quirk, a member of the Klondike O'Donnell gang, twice charged with murder and a known badman, and Joseph Bertsche, a notorious crook, were the men killed, while George Druggan, brother of Terry Druggan, who with Frankie Lake made a million in the beer business, and Mrs. Vivian Ponc McGinnis, wife of an attorney and daughter of a Fox Lake resort keeper, are believed to be dying of bullet wounds.

The crime, reconstructed by investigators, is believed to have been committed as the five victims and one other man who escaped unhurt, all members of rival gangs, were gathered about the table in the Manning resort at 1:40 Sunday morning either planning a kidnapping or waiting for their pay for a job already completed when the death car, presumably occupied by a "defense squad" of gunners, pulled up at the resort.

Survivors Are Silent
The three dead gangsters were taken early Sunday to undertaking rooms in Waukegan, the bodies having been left in the Manning hotel by the sixth member of the party who drove to Chicago with George Druggan and Mrs. McGinnis, both of whom were silent on the details of the shooting.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith, Capt. George Heckinger and Deputy Harry Quandt of the sheriff's office started an investigation as once. Search for the guns used in the killing was futile and questioning of Manning, a Fox Lake alderman, his wife and Louis Capella, the bartender, elicited but little information.

Manning and his wife had gone to bed after the party of six had sat down to a midnight dinner. Just before the shooting Quirk had come in with two other couples who immediately went up stairs. Capella had started to sweep out, hoping to give the hint to the merry-makers that he wanted them to leave. Then came

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED TO TWENTY-SIX AT COMMENCEMENT

Dr. Nolan Advises Class That Success Comes From Hard Work

"The pots of gold are at the end of the rainbow, and you may possess some of this gold if you follow the trail," so maintained Dr. A. W. Nolan last Monday night at the thirteenth High School commencement exercises. Dr. Nolan had a message filled with timely advice for both young and old. He carried conviction to those who packed the large auditorium.

As the strains of the orchestra procession began, the class headed by its president, Miss Lillah Hawkins, marched in solemn and stately fashion to their places of honor on the stage. They were robed in the conventional caps and gowns of high school gray, and presented an imposing sight for the proud parents and friends who had gathered to help them celebrate this important event in their lives.

The senior mixed quartette under the direction of Miss Rice sang two numbers that were greatly appreciated.

After the address by Dr. Nolan, John Tellalsha, a high school student attending from Allendale, again pleased his audience with his unusual technique on the violin. One seldom hears a high school student who has mastered this instrument so well. In fact local school authorities predict a great future for "Johnnie" in music.

Dorothy Hughes as valedictorian and Homer Edwards as salutatorian performed their tasks with the grace of practice and experience. These two young people who had the highest averages were the most diminutive in stature. They came from the Millburn and Hickory vicinity. Dorothy expects to enter Illinois Wesleyan and Homer will attend University of Illinois.

In his final charge to the class Prin. L. O. Bright asked that the members ever keep in mind that the present and future students will be following them as examples. The graduates can be of great benefit to the school by being worthy examples.

Mr. Kuttl presented the Rhodes' Agriculture awards to Lloyd Barnstable, William Yopp and Homer Edwards.

The splendid chorus made its final appearance at the close of the program and sang, Invictus, Lift Up Your Heads, and Adoramus Te. The audience showed its appreciation by vigorously asking for an encore. The chorus responded with the well known but difficult number, "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's Messiah. Miss Rice deserves much credit for the proficiency of the organization. Dr. Nolan said that this was the best high school chorus he had ever heard during his experience in hundreds of high schools.

At the close of the exercises an invitation was extended to see the exhibit of shop work under the supervision of F. H. Hackett and C. L. Kuttl. This was the best exhibit ever seen at the local school.

MORE JERSEYS FOR PASCHENDALE

Dr. G. W. Jensen and Arthur Simpson, foreman at Paschendale farms, returned Thursday from Missouri where they had purchased a carload of registered Jersey cattle to add to the Paschendale herd of over 400 head.

Display Room Opens Showing Motor Boats

The O'Hara Boats and Motors company has again opened a display building, formerly occupied by the room for the summer. The Brogan Blue Front Grocery has been secured. R. W. Nickerson will be the local manager.

Rhodes Medals Given To Three Outstanding Boys in Agriculture

To the three boys having completed the best projects in farm improvement under the supervision of the Department of Vocational Agriculture of the local high school, Mr. T. G. Rhodes of the Chicago Foot-wear company presents, each year a set of medals.

Lloyd Barnstable of Lake Villa was awarded the gold medal for his excellent work in the development of a pure bred Guernsey herd. This work, undertaken a little over a year ago, is showing great improvement.

Wm. Yopp of Antioch was presented a silver medal as a token of his rapid progress, he has made in the establishment of a flock of White Plymouth Rock poultry.

Homer Edwards received the bronze medal for his splendid showing in the management of a flock of White Wyandotte poultry.

The thirty-five projects of last year, according to C. L. Kuttl, Ag instructor, yielded an income of $9,125.00 at a profit of $4,190.00 to the boys.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. ANNOUNCES RATE REDUCTION

Lower Charge to Be Made for Service Effective August 1

The reduction in rates of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois for residential electric service readings taken on and after August 1st, has been announced by the general offices of that company. The new rate will effect a saving of more than a million dollars to users of the company's residential service over a period of twelve months. It was filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission on Tuesday of this week.

The new reduced residential rate, as made public by John G. Learned, vice-president of the company, will be 8c, 7c, 5c and 3c (net) per kilowatt-hour, except in Arlington Heights, Kenilworth, Lake Bluff and Melrose Park where the initial portion of the rate will be 1c higher due to ordinance provisions, according to the amount of electricity used in a month, and the number of rooms in a home will be the basis of computing the charges, instead of the number of sockets, which is the present practice.

"We are pleased to make this new rate available to our residential customers," said Mr. Learned, "because it makes it possible for the average householder to have a greater use of the conveniences which electricity brings into the home at a lower cost than before."

"Although this new rate does not cancel the existing rate for residential service, and any customer is privileged to return to the old rate if he chooses, after having tried the new rate out," Mr. Learned said, "we believe the new rate will be generally accepted because it is a reduction to practically all residential customers. The new rate is a modernized method of charging for electricity. Its simplicity makes it easy to understand. It is a development to avoid consideration of the number of lighting outlets and sockets in computing bills. Under the new rate the charges for electricity are based on the number of rooms and the amount of electricity consumed so that any customer may equip his home for lights and small appliances without limitation."

A survey to determine the number of rooms in residences throughout the territory served has been made by the Public Service company in connection with the establishment of this rate, and a continuation of this survey will be necessary from time to time to keep the company's record accurate.

Coincident with the filing of a new rate for residential service the company has also filed a new light and power rate for small commercial users, such as stores, shops and offices. This new commercial rate, which will be available on August 1st, will make it possible for a majority of the small commercial customers to secure a reduction in their costs for electric service over a year's period.

The large sign, over the old entrance to the Wetzel Garage on Main street, was removed this week.

BOARD SEEKS AID IN PARKING PROBLEM; PETITION CIRCULATED

Council Adjourns Without Taking Action on Traf- fic Measure

Inability to ascertain the wishes of those who would be most directly affected by the passing of a parking ordinance in Antioch, the village board adjourned from their regular session Tuesday night without taking any action on the proposed measure.

The proposed ordinance, drawn by Village Attorney Runyard providing for one-hour parking, never got to the point of reading, but the old ordinance passed years ago was gone over and found to be somewhat drastic in its provisions with the exception that it contained no time limit.

Petition Circulated
It was advised that the matter again be brought to the attention of the board at the call of the mayor when the desires of the business interests are learned. A petition, it was stated today, is being circulated in order to get a straw vote on the matter of passing and enforcing a parking ordinance. "The trustees represent the village and they are ready to act in the best interests of the majority," President Bartlett said this morning.

Income Is Inadequate
"The great handicap," Mayor Bartlett continued, "is lack of funds with which to purchase public parking lots, and to put into execution other measures to keep Antioch abreast with other progressive municipalities. With the present income, Antioch has reached the limit in the matter of expenditures."

Ways and means of increasing the town's income is one of the problems the board is facing, according to the Mayor, and steps will be taken at once, he said, to relieve a situation that not only is becoming embarrassing, but a condition that is holding up progress to a very marked degree, when the town should be gorging ahead.

FLAMES DESTROY $200 WOOD-PILE

Fire early Monday morning destroyed a wood-pile valued at $200 on the Ollie Gullicksen farm at Loon lake. The flames are thought to have originated from a smoldering bonfire that had been burning near the woodpile, according to the tenant, John Nellis, who discovered the fire at 1:30 o'clock.

A crew of ten Antioch firemen, with three lines of hose and a plentiful water supply from Loon lake, worked an hour and a half to save nearby buildings.

Woman Blames Liquor For Family Brawl

A distress call from north Antioch shortly after four o'clock this afternoon brought four officers to the scene of trouble, where it was learned a brawl had been in progress a few minutes previous, with J. Dexter on the receiving end of a terrific beating administered by his wife and Edward Wendling, a neighbor, who interceded when he heard Mrs. Dexter's screams for help.

Mrs. Dexter claimed her husband had returned to the home in an intoxicated condition and started to fight. When Deputy Dick Allner and Marshal Brogan arrived at the home they found Dexter alone. Wendling having brought Mrs. Dexter to town for treatment. State Patrolmen Litweller and Valenta also called to make investigations.

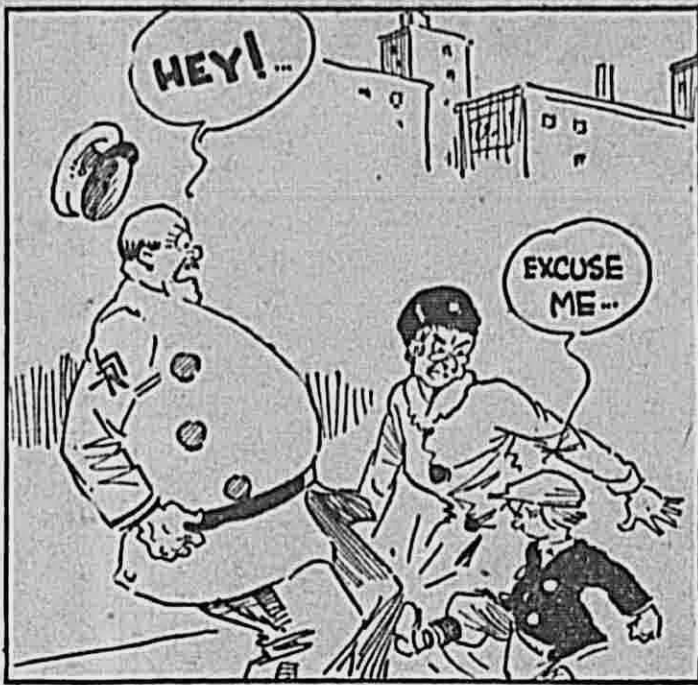

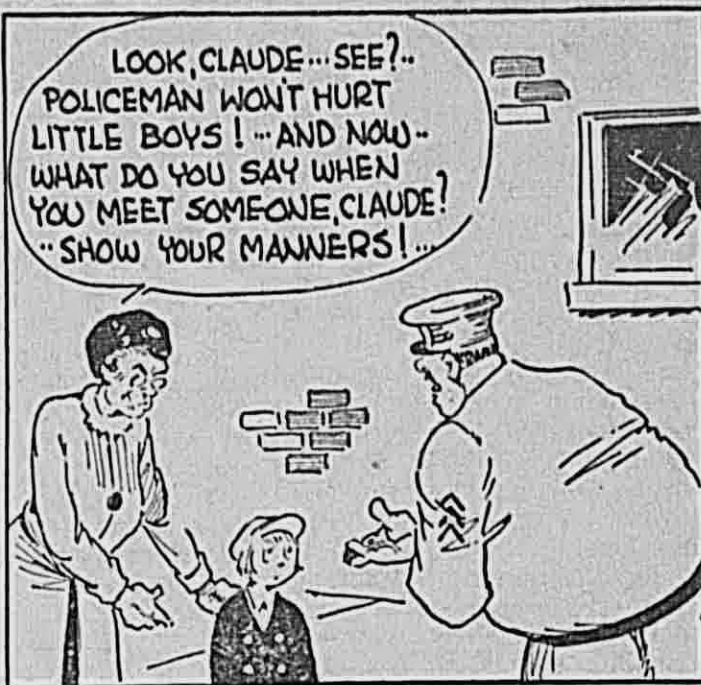

Dexter, a carpenter in the employ of Paschendale farms, declared he would prefer charges against his assailants. Officers Brogan and Allner brought Dexter to Dr. Beebe's office for treatment. His nose appeared to be broken.

Wendling operates a used car and repair yard on the Hancock property in North Antioch.

The Dexter residence bore signs of a real fight. Broken furniture, flower pots and glass were strewn profusely.

L. W. Peterson will leave for his home in New Lisbon, Wis., tomorrow morning. He is employed for the summer at King's drug store.

NEW LAUNDRY OPENS MONDAY, JUNE 9, WITH MODERN EQUIPMENT

Big Payroll Added To Community Income

GRUTZMACHER PRE- DICTS GLOWING FU- TURE FOR NEW IN- DUSTRY.

"We predict a business of $2000 the first week. It will increase and become probably the largest business in Antioch. We will start with a payroll of forty. We have the most modern equipment the laundry business produces," so stated E. A. Grutzmacher, manager of the Chain O' Lakes Laundry.

A trip through the new laundry convinced the writer that Mr. Grutzmacher knows the laundry business and knows what he is talking about.

The Chain O' Lakes Laundry is to become a reality in operation next Monday, just at the beginning of the rush season. Buyer Morley Property

Geo. E. Mr. R. C. Abt acted as broker.

Mr. Orr states that they will commence very shortly the erection of a modern dry cleaning plant to serve not alone the people of the Chain O' Lakes region, but will go after the mail order dry cleaning business.

The Laundry and Dry Cleaning plant when in full operation will be an enterprise that Antioch may well be proud of and it will furnish a payroll that has long been needed. The residents of this community should back the proposition to the fullest extent.

Those who have been actively engaged in bringing the enterprise to completion are C. D. Foth, Attorney-in-fact, Geo. E. Orr, financial engineer, and E. A. Grutzmacher, superintendent. They have encountered

Boy Scouts Need Financial Help

For the first time in five years the Antioch community is asked to contribute funds in behalf of the Lake County Boy Scout work. Our community is endeavoring to raise the sum of $300.00, about half of which will remain in our own community for the benefit of our local troop No. 81 in which there are at present enrolled 30 boys of Antioch. Our troop being the largest in the entire County Council of about 25 troops.

The men of Antioch who are sponsoring this financial drive are: Rex Bonser, chairman of finance committee; Philip T. Bohl, scout master; S. Boyer Nelson, assistant scout master; Dr. R. D. Rhodes Medals Given To Three Outstanding Boys in Agriculture

To the three boys having completed the best projects in farm improvement under the supervision of the Department of Vocational Agriculture of the local high school, Mr. T. G. Rhodes of the Chicago Footwear company presents, each year a set of medals.

Lloyd Barnstable of Lake Villa was awarded the gold medal for his excellent work in the development of a pure bred Guernsey herd. This work, undertaken a little over a year ago, is showing great improvement.

Wm. Yopp of Antioch was presented a silver medal as a token of his rapid progress, he has made in the establishment of a flock of White Plymouth Rock poultry.

Homer Edwards received the bronze medal for his splendid showing in the management of a flock of White Wyandotte poultry.

The thirty-five projects of last year, according to C. L. Kuttel, Ag instructor, yielded an income of $9,125.00 at a profit of $4,190.00 to the boys.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. ANNOUNCES RATE REDUCTION

Lower Charge to Be Made for Service Effective August 1

The reduction in rates of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois for residential electric service readings taken on and after August beginning with the regular meter 1st, has been announced by the general offices of that company. The new rate will effect a saving of more than a million dollars to users of the company's residential service over a period of twelve months. It was filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission on Tuesday of this week.

The new reduced residential rate, as made public by John G. Learned, vice-president of the company, will be 8c, 7c, 5c and 3c (net) per kilowatt-hour, except in Arlington Heights, Kenilworth, Lake Bluff and Melrose Park where the initial portion of the rate will be 1c higher due to ordinance provisions, according to the amount of electricity used in a month, and the number of rooms in a home will be the basis of computing the charges, instead of the number of sockets, which is the present practice.

"We are pleased to make this new rate available to our residential customers," said Mr. Learned, "because it makes it possible for the average household to have a greater use of the conveniences which electricity brings into the home at a lower cost than before."

"Although this new rate does not cancel the existing rate for residential service, and any customer is privileged to return to the old rate if he chooses, after having tried the new rate out," Mr. Learned said, "we believe the new rate will be generally accepted because it is a reduction to practically all residential customers. The new rate is a modernized method of charging for electricity. Its simplicity makes it easy to understand. It is a development to avoid consideration of the number of lighting outlets and sockets in computing bills. Under the new rate the charges for electricity are based on the number of rooms and the amount of electricity consumed so that any customer may equip his home for lights and small appliances without limitation."

A survey to determine the number of rooms in residences throughout the territory served has been made by the Public Service company in connection with the establishment of this rate, and a continuation of this survey will be necessary from time to time to keep the company's record accurate.

Coincident with the filing of a new rate for residential service the company has also filed a new light and power rate for small commercial users, such as stores, shops and offices. This new commercial rate, which will be available on August 1st, will make it possible for a majority of the small commercial customers to secure a reduction in their costs for electric service over a year's period.

BOARD SEEKS AID IN PARKING PROBLEM; PETITION CIRCULATED

Council Adjourns Without Taking Action on Traf- fic Measure

Inability to ascertain the wishes of those who would be most directly affected by the passing of a parking ordinance in Antioch, the village board adjourned from their regular session Tuesday night without taking any action on the proposed measure.

The proposed ordinance, drawn by Village Attorney Runyard providing for one-hour parking, never got to the point of reading, but the old ordinance passed years ago was gone over and found to be somewhat drastic in its provisions with the exception that it contained no time limit.

Petition Circulated

It was advised that the matter again be brought to the attention of the board at the call of the mayor when the desires of the business interests are learned. A petition, it was stated today, is being circulated in order to get a straw vote on the matter of passing and enforcing a parking ordinance. "The trustees represent the village and they are ready to act in the best interests of the majority," President Bartlett said this morning.

Income Is Inadequate

"The great handicap," Mayor Bartlett continued, "is lack of funds with which to purchase public parking lots, and to put into execution other measures to keep Antioch abreast with other progressive municipalities. With the present income, Antioch has reached the limit in the matter of expenditures."

Ways and means of increasing the town's income is one of the problems the board is facing, according to the Mayor, and steps will be taken at once, he said, to relieve a situation that not only is becoming embarrassing, but a condition that is holding up progress to a very marked degree, when the town should be gorging ahead.

FLAMES DESTROY $200 WOOD-PILE

Fire early Monday morning destroyed a wood-pile valued at $200 on the Ollie Gullicksen farm at Leon lake. The flames are thought to have originated from a smoldering bonfire that had been burning near the woodpile, according to the tenant, John Nellis, who discovered the fire at 1:30 o'clock.

A crew of ten Antioch firemen, with three lines of hose and a plentiful water supply from Leon lake, worked an hour and a half to save nearby buildings.

Woman Blames Liquor For Family Brawl

A distress call from north Antioch shortly after four o'clock this afternoon brought four officers to the scene of trouble, where it was learned a brawl had been in progress a few minutes previous, with J. Dexter on the receiving end of a terrific beating administered by his wife and Edward Wendling, a neighbor, who interceded when he heard Mrs. Dexter's screams for help.

Mrs. Dexter claimed her husband had returned to the home in an intoxicated condition and started to fight. When Deputy Dick Allner and Marshal Brogan arrived at the home they found Dexter alone. Wendling having brought Mrs. Dexter to town for treatment. State Patrolmen Litweller and Valenta also called to make investigations.

Dexter, a carpenter in the employ of Paschendale farms, declared he would prefer charges against his assailants. Officers Brogan and Allner brought Dexter to Dr. Beebe's office for treatment. His nose appeared to be broken.

Wendling operates a used car and repair yard on the Hancock property in North Antioch.

The Dexter residence bore signs of a real fight. Broken furniture, flower pots and glass were strewn profusely.

L. W. Peterson will leave for his home in New Lisbon, Wis., tomorrow morning. He is employed for the summer at King's drug store.

CREDIT AND CHARACTER

A wit once wrote that even if some man did build a better mousetrap, even if the world did hear of it and beat a path to his door, plenty of mice would still live to a ripe old age if he refused to sell it on credit.

For it is a fact that no man—a business man—will or ever would give a second thought to doing business on a credit basis with people who want credit and who are people of honor and of sound judgment. . . . People of honor whose legitimate debts are paid, and of sound judgment who do not contract unwise debts.

It is for that class which does not want to pay the price of credit that the cash stores of today are created.

So we find that credit is a boomerang. Eighty per cent of the business all over the country, which figure is no doubt comparably sound here in Antioch is done on credit. If credit were not available, much less would be done. But if credit were sounder, much more would be done.

For example, we probably could not buy automobiles if we could not buy them on credit (for the present prices). What per cent of the present users would accumulate enough to pay cash? And yet the cost of financing cars is higher than it need be, we are told, because finance companies are forced to repossess cars daily because of poor credit accounts.

On another page of this issue appears a message from our business and professional men. Some sell for cash and some for credit. But all the world over, you'll find it's true if you ask them, that it's getting the cash, and giving the credit that keeps them worried. Credit has built up many a large retail business and yet kept it from ever becoming prosperous. Credit brings the buyer to the store first, our storekeeper tells us, but turns him away when he has unwisely built up an account too difficult for him to pay. CREDIT IS A BOOMERANG.

If we keep our credit better with our merchant, he can keep it better with his jobber. His jobber can do the same; all can buy for less; all can sell for less; all can be more prosperous; and we can get more for our money. So the circle continues and prosperity grows.

The Thrift Commandments are well worthy of study. This is not a message asking for the payment of bills. It is a logical explanation of a point we all know but that some of us occasionally forget. In the long run no one can prosper at the expense of others. And one of the best forms of working for our own benefit is to spend our money wisely, getting as much for it as possible. And one form of doing that is to keep credit conditions in Antioch as strong as possible.

Have you noticed how Antioch is making a bid for city recognition? The Depner-Somerville alley was paved this week. Would that there were fewer alleys leading from Main street.

Everybody is looking forward to seeing Officer Brogan in his new uniform.

This might help the village board: John Horan says, he made an actual count of parked cars in Antioch Saturday night at eight o'clock. Horan declares he recognized 15 cars as belonging to local people, and saw same number of Wisconsin cars parked here. Chicago, Oak Park and Berwyn license plates were most numerous. The count of cars included those on Main street business section and one block on Lake street. Thus, the actual figures, if correct, disprove the claim that local autos are monopolizing the downtown parking space, resulting in great inconvenience to out-of-town shoppers and alleged loss to Antioch merchants.

Antioch and the lake region fared pretty well in a business way over Memorial day and the week-end, in spite of hard times. "It's pretty hard for a man to deprive himself of his play times," a local man who caters to the vacationist, said today. "Scarcity of cash may result in increased business for the lake country, for the reason that many Chicago people who habitually spend long vacations in some distant part of the country may this year be content with a shorter vacation nearer home." In that case the Illinois resort region ought to be crowded with visitors.

GASOLINE TOLLS

One good way to think of gasoline taxes is to consider them as tolls.

If a car runs 12 miles to the gallon of gas, its owner pays one cent every six miles when a two-cent tax is in effect; one cent every four miles with a three-cent tax; one cent every three miles with a four-cent tax; one cent every 2.4 miles with a five-cent tax and one cent every two miles with a six-cent tax.

A person who drives only 6,000 miles a year must pay $10 to $30 in "gasoline tolls" in addition to licenses and other levies on his car.

The fact that gasoline taxes are expected to reach $55,000,000 this year and represent 20 to 30 per cent of the retail price of gasoline, presents a problem for consideration.

The public does not oppose, a reasonable gas tax even though it is class taxation, when all the revenue is used for road purposes. But unless American motorists resist exorbitant taxes or the diverting of special tax funds for general state purposes, we may look forward to a time not far distant when a gas tax of ten cents a gallon will be proposed.

TAKING TO THE AIR

The American public is taking to the air. Last year 90,000 persons made scheduled trips on passenger planes—double the 1928 number, and more will ride this year.

The people are becoming air-minded. The airplane has ceased to be a novelty and has taken its place along with railroads, buses and automobiles as a standard mode of transportation.

Little more than a year has passed since the modern passenger transport planes came into use. They are models of comfort, speed and dependability.

Who can wonder that they are a popular means of travel?

ROADS MAKE FARM PROFITS

Profitable farming is dependent upon good highway transportation. The better the roads the more profitable the farming. This is the conclusion reached by a survey recently conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station of Cornell University.

More and better farm-to-market roads enable American farmers to transport their products quickly and cheaply.

In the state of New York it was disclosed that farmers living on paved roads drove their trucks 725 miles more a year, on the average, than those living on dirt roads. Further, while but one-half of the farmers served by paved roads have them.

Several states are now conducting campaigns to provide rural districts with all-weather roads. Thousands of miles of expensive main highways have been built which are of little benefit to the farmers until feeder roads are built connecting them with rural districts.

Such feeder roads would be of value to town and city merchants who would gain business that is now kept away by impassable roads. They would attract tourists by opening up new territory and relieve main highways of congestion. Such roads must be built of agriculture is to keep up with the march of progress.

CHEVROLET'S New Service Policy wins nationwide approval

On January 1st of this year, the Chevrolet Motor Company announced a new service policy—the most liberal ever offered in connection with a low-priced automobile.

Immediately it was greeted with enthusiasm by Chevrolet buyers everywhere—because its many unusual features materially add to the economy and lasting satisfaction of Chevrolet ownership. Briefly, it provides——for free inspection and adjustment at the 500-mile mark, and free inspections every 1000 miles thereafter.

—for free replacement of any material—including both parts and labor—that may prove defective, within the terms of the standard warranty.—that this replacement will be carried out by any Chevrolet dealer in the United States—regardless of where the owner may have traveled during the warranty period.

Backing this policy is one of the largest service organizations in the automotive industry—consisting of over 10,000 authorized Chevrolet dealer service stations in the United States alone. Come in! Learn all the other reasons why it's wise to choose a Chevrolet Six!

HintsAmong Us Women
by
Mrs. Ruth StoneSILK GIRDLE REPLACES
THE OLD-TIME CORSET

There is about as much resemblance between the old-time corset and modern girdle that women have adopted as there is between an armored battleship and a canoe. It is safe to predict that never again will women allow themselves to be sheathed in steel and whalebone until all natural beauty of figure is hidden and free, spontaneous movement is impossible.

The type of a girdle the 1930 woman selects depends somewhat upon her type of figure and the purposes for which she intends to wear it. The larger woman likes a fairly deep, form-fitting flickory girdle with wide inserts of silk elastic over the sides, extended front shield and a light boning. The woman of slighter build, however, selects a narrow flickory girdle with small elastic inserts and little or no boning. Another style is of flower-trimmed, shirred satin ribbon in slip-on style. This type is particularly popular for sports and day-time wear. With the formal evening frock, which must be form-fitting according to fashion's revived mode, the other types are selected even by the youngest and slimmest of girls.

In either case, the new style girdles meet the approval of doctors and physical educators who recognize them as the perfect happy medium that gives enough support to abdominal muscles and yet permits perfect freedom of motion regardless of occupation.

But the girdle has another important duty to perform besides the slight molding restraint it gives the figure, and that is the task of keeping the stockings smooth and straight. For this reason, any girdle selected should have four adjustable flickory hose supporters, of live, responsive elastic, and with supporter buckles with rubber cushions to protect the hose from holes and runs.

Many women like to wear a dainty flickory round garter in addition to assure straight seam lines in the stockings, which are universally acknowledged to be essential to correct grooming.

The delightfully appetizing way French chefs have of preparing vegetables by adding a dash of sugar to restore or "point up" their natural sweetness, is becoming increasingly popular with American housewives. Here are two recipes from Mr. Diat's own private collection that have a special appeal.

Louis Diat

Souffle Aux
Epinards—

Wash thoroughly and drain three pounds of spinach. Boil fifteen minutes in one cup of salted water to which one teaspoon of sugar has been added. Drain and press out all of the water. Rub through a coarse sieve.

Melt four tablespoons of butter, adding three tablespoons of flour to make a smooth paste. Add slowly one and one-half cups of milk. Cook and stir slowly until thick. Cool slightly and add the yolks of four eggs. Add the prepared spinach and one teaspoon of powdered sugar. Fold in the beaten whites. Pile in a buttered souffle dish and bake in a moderate and even oven for twenty-five minutes.

Peas and Carrots in Cream—4 portions—Plunge two cups of fresh shelled peas into boiling salted water to which one teaspoon of sugar has been added. Boil slowly for twenty-five minutes. Cook six small diced carrots in the same manner. Drain them both and saute gently in two teaspoons of butter. Add salt and one teaspoon of sugar and blend with four tablespoons of boiling cream, which may or may not be thickened with three-fourths teaspoon of flour.

Jellied Salads Are Popular

By CAROLINE B. KING

JELLIED salads are always popular. On warm days I like them because they are so cool; on cool days because they are so colorful—and in between times because I adore making them. Here's my best. I call it:

Maccelaine Salad
I use those delightful peas and carrots that are sold in glass jars in making my pretty salad; it is so nice to be able to see the colors and the sizes of the vegetables. Soften one tablespoonful of gelatin in a quarter of a cupful of cold water and add one cupful of the liquor from the peas, bring to the boiling point and stir in half a teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, a quarter of a cupful of lemon juice and two tablespoonfuls of juice from the jar of pineapple.

Cool almost to the point of congealing and add a quarter of a cupful of carrots cut in small pieces, one cupful of peas and two tablespoonfuls of pimiento shredded coarsely and half a cupful of shredded pineapple. Stir gently and pour into individual molds. At serving time unmold on plates bordered with cress and garnish with mayonnaise and stars cut from the pimientos. It does look entrancing when it's all dressed up and ready to serve with tiny toasted cheese crackers!

Sweet potatoes on the menu often present a problem, as so few variations in their preparation are offered in the recipes at the command of the housewife. Here are two ways of cooking them that Mr. Diat is particularly proud of.

Sweet Potatoes Louisiana or Southern Style—Boil six medium sized sweet potatoes until tender in a generous quantity of salted water. Cool, peel and cut in round slices one-quarter inch thick. Arrange them in a shallow round earthenware or glass baking dish, overlapping each other in circles. Brush with butter and pour over them one-half cupful of hot maple syrup and brown for fifteen minutes. Just before serving, sprinkle with two tablespoons of sugar. Glaze for one or two minutes under a hot broiler.

Sweet Potatoes and Apples Louisiana—Prepare sweet potatoes in the same manner as Sweet Potatoes Louisiana. Arrange them in the baking dish with half slices of pineapple. Add maple syrup, heat and glaze with sugar as above.

Techert and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stowe and family of Waukegan moved the first of the week into the Rhodes house on Depot street.

The bridge party given at the "Manor House" on South Main street on Monday afternoon of last week was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary as an organization instead of being given by a group of members and their friends, as stated in last week's News.

Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Van Patten and daughter, Mildred, Mrs. J. R. Cribb and Mrs. W. S. Rinear motored to Genoa City Sunday. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. McDonald.

The Thimble Bee society of the M. E. church will meet at the home of Mrs. Mike Jensen, Lake street, Wednesday afternoon, June 11.

George Davenport who was born in Antioch and who has been away several years spent a few days in the old town. He is now associated with the Russian Cement company of Chicago.

Mrs. Martin Burdick of Clinton, Ohio, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Roy Graves, and family.

L. O. Bright and family spent the week-end with relatives in Oak Park.

B. Pallesen, who has been in Los Angeles for some time, is returning to Grayslake. He will bring three Boston Terriers. The trip will be made by bus.

MEMORIAL SERVICES REVERENTLY ATTENDED BY MANY PEOPLE

Honor A. J. Felter, Sole Survivor of Civil War

"Americans for America" was the revised version which Conrad Edmund Silverbrand, of Chicago, employed for the much used phrase. He asked that we become Americans in spirit and conduct as well as simply bearing the name. Too many of us are unwilling to accept the responsibilities even though demand all of the privileges and rights accorded others.

A very large and reverent audience attended the Memorial day exercises at Hillside cemetery, arranged by the American Legion, Daughters of the G. A. R. and the Legion Auxiliary.

The Allendale band led the parade and played several numbers. The committee wishes to thank Capt. Bradley and Mr. Hinton for the assistance which the band rendered.

Rev. Simms and Rev. Bohl were the officiating clergymen present. Each organization had its specific part in showing honor to those who had gone on before. As a conclusion the Legion squad filed the salute and one of the members, Earl Horton, sounded taps.

The weather and the day were ideal and the services were declared to be extremely impressive.

A. J. Felter, the only surviving Civil War veteran and J. N. Pacini of the Spanish American war were given places of Honor.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Christian Science" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 29.

The Golden Text was, "When the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me" (John 15:26).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth!" (Isaiah 52:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science is an emanation of divine Mind, and is alone able to interpret God aright. It has a spiritual, and not a material origin. It is a divine utterance,—the Comforter which leadeth into all truth" (p. 127).

On Sunday, June 8, the Sunday school will meet at the usual time, 9:30. We made a good start for the month of June, there were 106 present. Next Sunday being Children's day we are observing the day with a program which will be given by the primary and junior departments of our Sunday school. The program will be given at 10:45, the regular worship service hour. Following the program there will be baptismal services held for children and any adults who may desire it. There will also be the reception of members.

The offerings of Children's Day will be sent to World Service for the purpose of educational aid for those who need help. There have been many young people helped to complete their educations through the aid of these offerings. Let us make ours a large one this year.

There will be no evening services Sunday. It has been the custom to dispense with the evening services during the summer months. The Epworth League will again meet on Tuesday evening. The social hour of the meeting next week will be in the form of a welter roast. The hour is 7:30.

The activities of this week are: Epworth League meeting at the parsonage on Tuesday evening, Thimble Bee society meeting on Wednesday

LIGHTNING RODS

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I had supposed, until I made a trip to southern Illinois a few weeks ago, that the lightning rod which once had so general a vogue had gone the way of corsets and consumption cures, and electric belts for relieving fits, and fakes generally which intrigued the credulity of the inexperienced and robbed them of their money a generation or two ago. I supposed that we all knew that buckeyes carried in the pocket neither prevent nor cure rheumatism, and that the lightning rod may be a menace to safety rather than a protection if not properly adjusted. But I am mistaken; the lightning rod, and Nancy tells me also the corset, is coming back again.

All through the farming district, as we drove down toward Metropolis, we could see the work of the lightning rod dispenser. Every house, every barn, every outbuilding, from woodshed to chicken roost, was bristling with lightning rods. Fourteen I counted on one farmstead.

I could guess how it all happened. Some silver-tongued orator, trained in salesmanship at college, had dropped in on the Browns and had sold them the proposition. Safety, protection, freedom from sudden death were all to be gained by the simple investment in lightning rods—the more the better. They fell, and, being the most prominent people in the neighborhood, were followed suit by the neighbors as meekly as sheep following each other over the pasture fence.

If it isn't lightning rods it is something else quite as foolish that we all adopt. Two years ago all the big boys in college had coonskin coats. I knew a boy who waited table and fired furnaces in order to get himself one and so he in style. Last year the coonskin coat was quite passe. All the real bean brumms had camel's hair. One just wasn't in it with out a camel's hair coat. Next year it will be something else and the camel's hair coats will be thrown into the discard.

It was the same way with garters. Some one started the fashion of discarding garters and letting his socks hang in a discouraged way over his ankles and immediately every young fellow threw away his garters. We don't think so much for ourselves; we follow the fashion; we do as our neighbors do. If Mrs. Brown has long skirts or bobs her hair or goes in for antique furniture, then all the neighbors follow in quick order. If Brown puts a lightning rod on the hen house, immediately all the chicken houses in the township are furnished with lightning rods.

The story is told that in the late war a German private soldier was apprehended upon French territory and brought in to the American commander of the post. "See here," the American said, "You have no business here. What's going to happen to you is that you're going to be backed up against the fence and shot."

"Well," the German said, ready to adopt lightning rods if that was the style, "Vaterfick iss de rule."

Another case of lightning rods. (© 1930, Western Newspaper Union.)

LAKE VILLA R. N. A. ENJOY PARTY WITH OLD PHOTOGRAPHS

Physician May Locate in Village Soon

The last meeting of the Royal Neighbors was a merry one, because of the splendid feature of the entertainment. Each member had an old picture of herself and the others had to guess who it was. One hardly realizes the changes that take place until the old pictures are brought out.

A doctor was in our village last week with a view to locate here. We hope that he decides to do so.

Mrs. Margaret Gallger is spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Earl Wilkinson at Elburn, Ill.

Mrs. Jones of Sandwich, Ill., visited her sister, Mrs. James Atwell, over Decoration Day. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Burton, also of Sandwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nader drove to Colma, Wis., to spend the week-end with Mrs. Nader's parents there.

Frank Selacero, second son of Mrs. Etta Selacero, is the latest in our village to join the ranks of wedded couples. His bride was Miss Margaret Anderson of Waukegan, and they are making their home in Waukegan. He is employed at the Hadad garage, and has many friends who wish him and his bride many years of wedded happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil of Chicago were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kelley over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Neil and daughter, Florence, expect to sail for England very soon.

Miss Bess Lawler was a guest of Dorothy Freund over Saturday and Sunday before going on to her home at Cortland, where she will spend the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gray of Chicago were week-end guests of the Avery family at Cedar lake.

The firm of H. C. Dixon has been increased by the addition of a new member of the firm who arrived early Monday morning. However, he has not yet been named.

The Village Board met in regular session Monday evening and business matters of importance were discussed.

Miss Laura Carpenter of Chicago spent Friday and Saturday with her aunt, Mrs. S. M. Sherwood and the R. H. Sherwood family.

Chas. Peterson of the firm of Peterson and Co., had quite an accident last Friday morning while cutting chops with a cleaver. He cut off the ends of two fingers of his left hand.

Mrs. B. J. Hooper entertained the officers of the Eastern Star at a luncheon at Lone Oak Inn on Tuesday of last week. Cards were played during the afternoon and a splendid time was had.

Miss Laura Reinbach of Chicago was a guest of her brother, Carl Reinbach and family over the week-end.

Several from here attended graduating exercises at Antioch Monday evening, and others will attend the exercises at Gurnee and Libertyville on Thursday and Friday evenings.

The Angola Cemetery society will meet in Lake Villa church Tuesday evening, June 10 at eight o'clock. Any lot owner is welcome to attend.

John Boden arrived from his home in Athens, O., Monday to take up his duties at the Antlers and Antioch hotels for the season. John was recently graduated from the Athens high school. He has an ambition to become "mine host," and no doubt under the able tutelage of Chet Waldo, John should soon become a first-class hotel man.

CHANNEL LAKE COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

What Members of Popular Organization Are Doing

The perfect weather over Memorial Day and week-end was conducive to a most ideal time for the many Country club members who availed themselves of the long holiday. The golf links were kept very full most of the time and prizes were given for special events.

On Saturday evening about eighty of the members gathered for a "help yourself" supper at the club house, and the committee in charge, consisting of Mmes. Paulson, Bayrd, Pfleger, Van Pelt, Warriner and Grice, are to be congratulated on the delightful menu planned, and so well executed by the chef, Mr. Marion, and his assistants. Everyone was most satisfied with the arrangement for serving and there were many requests for a weekly dinner served in like manner.

Among those who participated in the evening festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Gnaedinger, Paulson, Ward, Tankersley, Laffin, Mills, Heg, Sandell, Phillips, Bayrd, Smyth, Brook, Smart, Van Pelt, Cooper, Stevens, Nissen, Lytle, Mauermann and others. Many children came with their parents and this was a pleasant feature of the occasion.

It is hoped that more will avail themselves of the privileges of the club. The meals now served are well worthwhile, and we want to see more of the "get together" spirit on the part of our members.

Special mention might be made of the remarkable score made by our new pro, Joe Paletti, who broke the course record by shooting a thirty, which included a two on the fifth and a two on the seventh hole.

Mrs. Charles Laffin left on Monday for a two weeks trip to Denver as a delegate from the Chicago Woman's

WILMOT HIGH SCHOOL HOLDS CLOSING EVENTS

Alumni Association Will Hold Dance and Banquet

Two more important events remain on the school program for the year: Class Day exercises on Tuesday evening, June 10, and Commencement on Thursday, June 12. Several new and novel ideas are being worked out by the Senior class for Class Day exercises. The program starts promptly at 8:15. This will be our last chance to meet the entire Senior Class in a round of good laughs.

The public is invited and no admission will be charged. Miss Thieson of the high school faculty is assisting the class in planning the event.

The Commencement exercises will start at 8:15 on Thursday, June 12. The graduating class of this year consists of only six members: Irene Haase, Myrtle Davis, Iola Harm, Frederick Gilmore, Adolph Flegel and John Freeman.

Although the class is small it represents one of the most active to leave the high school. High honors, or Valedictorian, go to Iola Harm and second, Salutatorian, to Adolph Flegel. Both will appear on the Commencement program. The Commencement speaker will be Prof. Waklin McNeel of the University of Wisconsin. Mr. McNeel's subject will be "These Children of Ours." This talk has been called for and delivered over two hundred times throughout the United States.

Several musical numbers will round off the program.

The High School Baseball team won another extra inning game at the Wilmot park, May 28. The heretofore undefeated Clinton team was the victim. The regular seven innings came to a 4-4 deadlock. Neither team scored in the eighth. In the first half of the ninth Clinton scored one on a hit, an error and an infield out. Wilmot in the last half determined to do or die. Neumann first hit a slow roller down to third base and took second on an over throw to first. Lake sacrificed him to third. Hartman hit the shortstop who threw the ball away. Neumann scoring and Hartman took second. Oetting singled to left, Hartman taking third; Oetting stole second. Bernhoff worked the counts to 3 to 2 and then landed a single in right field driving Hartman in with the winning run. Bernhoff pitched the entire game in great style, walking none and striking out ten. Letting Hartman and Oetting also turned in a good game in their respective divisions. This ended the season. No one will be lost through graduation so the prospects for a good team another year are very bright.

M. M. Schnurr attended a committee meeting at Janesville Saturday morning for the purpose of revising the present project record book used by Vocational Agricultural students.

The final plans for the Alumni banquet and dance have been made. Reservations are still open. Don't forget the date, June 7, at 6:30. Place—Wilmot Gym. Come and meet your old classmates again. A short interesting program has been arranged.

Intermediate Department — Miss R. Dice, teacher. The following pupils will receive their eighth grade diplomas at Paddocks Lake next Saturday, June 7: Gertrude Nett, Glenn Pacey, Dorothy Kanis, Irya Blood, Louis Gandt, Ruth Holtdorf, Fern McDougall, Harold Gauger, Melvin Lake. Gertrude Nett received the highest average standing for pupils in Salem township. Because of this she will represent our township on the program at Paddocks Lake Saturday. Her number is "The Punishment of Robert" by Wilbur Nesbit.

Primary Department — Miss Olive Hope, teacher. The last meeting of year was held last Thursday. The The Good Citizens' League for this League boasts of seventeen members with Frank Rausch, president; Nick Shunk, secretary and June Pacey, flag bearer. Besides the training for citizenship and special etiquette of the flag, during this year the League has aided the Salvation Army, The Council Bluffs orphanage and supplied themselves with material for indoor and outdoor games. Their closing program Thursday included patriotic numbers, poems, picture study and stories from the language work of the year. The songs were those learned under the direction of Mr. Neilson, readings, solos and group work. A most interesting number was given by Grandma Kanis who brought wool and her spinning wheel and demonstrated for the children, the art she learned when a child of ten in Germany. She was presented with a huge bouquet by the League. The League entertained all the children of pre-school age during the day and a large number of adults in the afternoon.

There will be German services at ten, Sunday morning, and English at eight, Sunday evening, at the Lutheran church. Masses at the Holy Name church are at eight and ten on Sunday mornings during the summer months. Mrs. Raymond Rudolph and infant son, Robert Eugene, returned from the Burlington hospital Monday.

Guests Friday of Mrs. H. Boulden and Mary Boulden were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boulden and daughter, Mrs. S. Christensen and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Daly of Edison Park; Harold Boulden and Mrs. L. Boulden of Burlington and Mrs. Council and Mr. and Mrs. Will Nutham from Kenosha. On Sunday the relatives from Edison Park motored out again for the day.

Mrs. Harry McDougall and Fern were in Chicago Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Luedtke, Kenosha, were guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pella. Mr. and Mrs. R. Goodwin and Mr. and Mrs. R. Isley of Kenosha spent the week-end at the Pella home.

T. H. McCormick and daughter and A. Walt of Milwaukee were guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Vincent.

Mrs. Otto Luedtke and son of Kenosha visited relatives and friends here Friday.

Deane Loftus was home from Madison from Thursday until Saturday. Helen Loftus, Ruth Pacey and Doris Ganzlin accompanied him to Madison Saturday and remained for the day.

Guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kanis were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schraeder and daughter, Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Berish, Helen A. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. K. Schirphk all of Milwaukee; Mrs. D. Simmons, Maywood, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Schilling from Chicago.

Mrs. John Staley, Chicago, was a week-end guest of her sister, Mrs. Fred Faulkner.

Mr. and Mrs. Kraemer spent the holidays at their home in Evansville.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Dorwin, Wauconda, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thomas, Greenwood, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stoen.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pacey entertained Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shales and daughters, Woodstock; Mrs. Anna Pacey, Mrs. O'Donnell and sons of Milwaukee; Edward Pacey, Lincoln, Nebraska; Mrs. Leah Pacey and children and Mrs. Etta Winn and Loranza, Wilmot.

Norman Jedele, Milwaukee, spent from Wednesday until Monday with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Jedele.

Mrs. Clara Morgan, Alleen Morgan and friends drove up from Chicago on Memorial day. Mrs. Morgan remained at the Runkel home for a visit.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reynolds over the holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Winn Peterson and children, Kenosha, Mr. and Mrs. Will Richards from Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. P. Peterson from Burlington.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Gauger included Mrs. Olga Hanneman and sons, Floyd and Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Carlson, Chicago and Gertrude Gauger, Powers Lake.

Ida Rasch, Milwaukee, was out from Friday until Sunday at the Carl Gauger home.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson, Kenosha, Mrs. F. Frederickson and daughter and Mrs. Elderbrook, of Brighton called on Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Volbrecht Sunday.

Word has been received of the death of Mrs. John Spears Olson at Kimball, Nebraska, Monday evening, May 19th. Mrs. Olson was a former resident of this locality. After the death of her husband, John Spear, she moved to Nebraska where later she was married to John Olson, who survives her. Other relatives are her son, Harry Spear, Sharon, two grandchildren and a number of brothers and sisters and a number of friends who mourn her passing. Mrs. Spear was nearly 77 years at the time of her death. Interment was in Kimball next to the grave of her mother, Mrs. Faden. She was buried from the Episcopal church and the same minister who officiated at her last wedding conducted her funeral services.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Not Self-Poisoning

It would seem to us strange that the poison given out by some insects and snakes can be contained in their bodies with out harm to them, but this is explained by the fact that every form of life has a different chemical make-up and what is poison to one is not to another. CHOOSING AN OCCUPATION

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

Jim is eighteen and very much in love—or at least that is what he thinks is what he wants. There is only one girl in the world for Jim. Being a Presbyterian, he is thoroughly convinced that long before the creation of the world, when the whole universe was in a state of chaos, it was foreordained that ultimately he and Ruth should be created for each other. If by some misstep he had failed to meet her, he is sure that he would have gone through life alone, disconsolate, or if otherwise mated, unhappily and unsuccessfully so. He does not realize that possibly twenty years from now he will have difficulty in recalling her name, and when it does come back to him the memory will not stir in him the slightest emotion. There are whole counties full of girls who would make Jim as happy as Ruth does if he could only meet them and who would make him as happy as the one he will finally marry will do.

There are thousands of young people who feel about their jobs as Jim does about his girl. They have special talents, they think; they are designed by nature to do a certain job and if they should fail to get into that particular position in life it would mean complete and hopeless ruin for them. It is because this idea is so prevalent that we hear so much today concerning vocational guidance—so very much in fact that we might well believe that every man and woman is designed for some specific profession or occupation, and if by any unlucky chance he should fall into something else he will meet his professional Waterloo.

I meet young fellows every day who are so much concerned about what they are best fitted for in the way of a life work, so eager to find some branch of learning or education or some occupation that will be suitable and pleasing to them—not to say easy—that they do nothing well or with any particular interest. Fearful of not doing the right thing, they neglect what opportunity is before them.

Now the fact is, as I have watched young people come and go for the last forty years or more, the average normal person could do one sort of work about as well as another if he would only set himself to it. Lloyd was brought up on a farm and would have made a very good farmer if he had set himself to it. As it was he studied engineering when he went to college and was elected to an honorary engineering society in his senior year. He is not an engineer today but a banker, who goes about the country telling people who know less than he does how to run their banks. I haven't the slightest doubt that if he had so chosen he could have done just as well in medicine or law as he is doing as a banker.

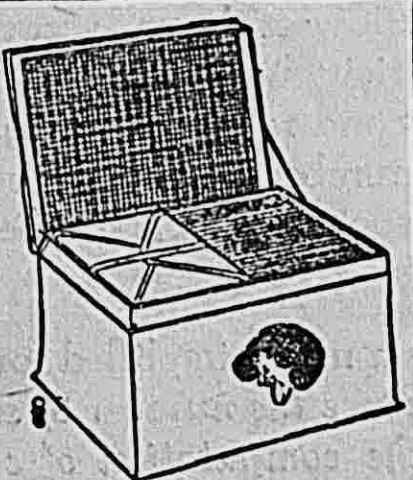

It seems to me it doesn't so much matter what occupation a man chooses as it does how he goes about what he chooses.

SECTIONS WHERE SAVINGS DECREASED

A regional analysis of the drop in the nation's savings deposits in banks, as recently reported by the American Bankers Association's Savings Bank Division in its annual compilation for 1929 showing the first recession in national savings in the twenty years during which it has published this data, reveals that all sections except the New England and the Pacific States groups recorded losses.

The published figures showed that on June 29, 1929, the total savings deposits in banks and trust companies of continental United States stood at $28,217,656,000, which was $195,305,000 below the similar total for 1928, when there was an increase of $2,300,000,000.

The regional analysis by state groups discloses, however, that the six New England states as a group gained more than $88,800,000 in savings and 152,984 in savings depositors, while the seven Pacific states as a group gained over $79,000,000 in deposits and nearly 278,000 in number of depositors. The gains in these two sections, however, were smaller than the gains recorded there for 1928. The sections which showed losses were the Middle Atlantic States, Southern States, East Central States and the West Central States.

30 Days in February

February was not always the shortest month. Up to the time of Julius Caesar it had thirty days, but in order to make his honor month, July, longer, he took a day away from February. Then along came Augustus who named a month after himself and added an extra day at the expense of February.

IN SIX WEEKS KONJOLA SCORED FINE VICTORY

"I Had No Idea Konjola
Could Give Such Wonderful Results," Says
Quincy Lady.

MRS. JACK BROKAMP

Tens of thousands of men and women have expressed amazement and delight with the Konjola, the medicine of 32 ingredients, goes to the very source of the ills this modern medicine is designed to relieve. Consider, for instance, the case of Mrs. Jack Brokamp, 719½ Main street, street, Quincy, Ill., who says:

"I am satisfied there is no better medicine than Konjola. For over four years I suffered with indigestion, kidney trouble and nervousness. Appetite was poor and what little I ate caused misery. At times I lived for days on broth or milk. I lost weight and became very weak. Well, I had no idea that Konjola could give such wonderful results. In six weeks I gained sixteen pounds, and it is a pleasure to live, the way I feel now." Isn't that the kind of medicine you want; one that makes good like Konjola has in numberless thousands of such cases?

Konjola is sold in Antioch, Illinois, at S. H. Reeves' drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF NORTHERN ILLINOIS

Announces Its Ninth

REDUCTION in RATE for RESIDENTIAL ELECTRIC SERVICE

On August 1st, 1930, the Following Reduced Rate will be in effect for Residential Customers:

8c net per kilowatt-hour for electricity used in any month equivalent to or less than the first 4 kilowatt-hours per room;

[This portion of the rate will be 1c higher in Arlington Heights, Kenilworth, Lake Bluff and Melrose Park, due to ordinance provisions.]

7c net per kilowatt-hour for additional electricity used in the month equivalent to or less than the next 4 kilowatt-hours per room;

5c net per kilowatt-hour for additional electricity used in the month equivalent to or less than the next 4 kilowatt-hours per room;

3c net per kilowatt-hour for all electricity used in the month in excess of the equivalent of the first 12 kilowatt-hours per room.

ABOUT THE NEW RATE

This, the ninth reduction in electric rates since the Company's organization in 1911, is made possible through the increased usage of electricity by our residential and commercial customers, and through the increased efficiency of Central Station operation. This new reduced rate affords you the convenience and luxury of additional electricity for your home for the same money.

This new rate will bring a saving to residential users of electricity supplied by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois of about $1,117,000.00 during a period of twelve months.

This saving will be effected in two ways: first, through a reduction in the rate to 8c, 7c, 5c and 3c (net) per kilowatt hour, according to the amount of electricity used; second, by computing the first rate, second rate and third rate kilowatt hours on the number of rooms, instead of on the number of sockets which has been the practice heretofore.

The new rate is a more simplified form of charge for electricity. Since the number of sockets is not considered in the computation of charges, residential customers may have an unlimited number of outlets for increasing lighting facilities and for using an unlimited number of ordinary domestic appliances. Bills will be computed on the basis of the number of rooms and the number of kilowatt hours consumed.

A residential survey has been made to determine the number of rooms upon which the charges will be based. The Company will from time to time continue to make such surveys in order to keep accurate records of the number of rooms.

The new rate schedule does not cancel the old rate for residential service. Should any customer, after trying the new rate, be disposed to have his charges computed under the old rate, the Company will do so upon request, providing the request is made before February 1, 1931.

Reduction in Commercial Rate

Effective on the same date as the reduction in rate for residential service, there will also be available a new light and power rate for small commercial users, such as stores, shops and offices. For the majority of such customers this new commercial rate will effect a reduction in the cost of electricity over a year's period.

A detailed schedule of these rates is on file at every office of the Company.

OGREN BATTLES SABATH IN LAST APPEARANCE HERE

Golden Gloves Winner Will Enter Ranks of Professionals

SWEDEN FIGHTS MASCARILLO

Lake county boxing fans Friday night will witness what is probably the last amateur appearance of Carl Ogren, inter-city champion and Tribune golden gloves champion, who will tangle with Walter Sabath in the windup attraction of Dick Mack's weekly amateur show at the Antioch Palace. Ogren's foe came near being central states champion in the recent elimination tournament and his meeting with Ogren is sure to be a thriller. Carl will soon join the ranks of the professionals, it is stated.

Mascarillo Again
In support of the super-windup, Mack has slated a semi-windup that promises to be as thrilling as the feature attraction. In this go the champion of Sweden, Walter Siren, is matched with Tony Mascarillo, Chicago, who is well known to Lake county fans as being an aggressive fighter.

Fast Preliminaries
The preliminaries will bring together Tom Arbiziani, Elgin, and George Schrosbee, son of the former world's champion; Earl Vernalier, Elgin, vs. Robert Schrosbee; George Korody, Elgin, vs. Eugene Burton, Kenosha; Chester Upham, Kenosha, vs. Charles Griffin, Chicago; Mickey Whiting, McHenry, vs. Billy Green, Belle Plaine.

N. Lux, 1st grade, will take further training at the National Kindergarten College at Evanston.

Miss Patterson will be succeeded by Miss Mildred Byrnes last year teacher of the Oakland school.

Miss Ayleen Wilson will take Miss Hynek's room for next year. Miss Wilson, who is a sister of Mrs. Rex Simms, is doing Chautauqua work during the summer. She is at present in South Carolina.

W. C. Petty will leave for his summer work at Teachers' College, Normal, Ill. He will teach part time in the Thomas Metcalf Training school. He will spend the remainder of his time completing work on his B. E. degree which he will receive at the end of the summer.

Miss Lillian Schroeder is spending the summer at her home in Lake Forest.

Miss Hedvig Rice left Tuesday for her home in Benson, Minn. She will leave about the middle of the month to spend the summer in Europe where she will meet her sister who is teaching in Syria.

Mrs. Ruby Richoy will soon leave for Normal, Ill., where she will direct the University Cafeteria for the summer.

G. G. Reed, high school coach, left Tuesday for his home in Loganport, Ind., to spend a few days before taking up his duties as instructor at Camp Algonquin at Burt Lake in Northern Michigan.

Mrs. Gladys Dardenne left Wednesday for Chicago. She will remain there with her husband until he completes his school work. They will spend the summer at Erie, Penn.

SIFT MOTIVES IN GANG SLAYINGS; 8TH VICTIM DIES

the slaughter, with Capella dodging under the bar at the first shot.

Believes Gangs Are Merged
Sunday when Col. Smith paid a visit to the Cassidy place at Bluff Lake where the Moran gang are said to have their headquarters, he found only consternation over the shooting. Frank Quirk, a Capone man, was in the midst of the Moran crowd attempting to find out the details of his brother's death. There was no bitterness between the men from the rival gangs.

Col. Smith said Monday that he believes that the Chicago gangsters have actually merged with the idea of preventing invasion of other gang leaders to "clean up" on the world's fair business, and that men from both mobs were selected to join in either a kidnapping job or a "muscle in" drive on the labor rackets, and that this party of gangsters, either planning their job or waiting for the division of their pay, were found out by friends of their victim or by a labor squad formed because the labor racketeers were tired of being "pushed around" by the gangsters and the death party caught their victims at the height of a celebration.

The fact that there was a celebration leads to the belief that the "job" had been completed as in gangland the women are not present at the planning or execution of a job.

Eighth Murder Yesterday
Confirming the theory that the Fox Lake massacre was only an incident in the alleged feud, murders continued throughout Chicago's gangland during the week, the eighth victim being Thomas Somerlor, west side "valley" gunman and racketeer, whose body bearing evidences of torture, was found in the rear of 884 West Harrison street. Somerlor may have been suspected, by the killers, police believe, with possessing some information of the Fox Lake massacre.

Develop Three Theories
Three theories, and all of these nothing more than conjectures based on recent gang history, are being developed Col. Smith said.

1. Labor racketeers sponsored the shooting in order to get Quirk, a right hand man of George "Red" Baker, leader of Chicago teamsters.

2. Gangland powers launched their fight for the lake region beer trade for the summer.

3. That the bullets were intended for Bersche who has been accused of breaking faith in a $100,000 Cincinnati mail robbery in which he served a prison sentence. Joseph Blue, his pal in the crime, was slain a week ago in Chicago.

Prices are lowered again on TIRES AND BATTERIES. 29x1.40 G & J Endurance, $4.79. 30x1.50, $5.38. 13-plate battery usually sells at $7.95, our price $4.89 exchange. Free installation. Gamble Stores.

Dividend Printing

There is one kind of printing that you want—printing that pays a dividend on the investment.

A letterhead with right sort of type properly balanced is a real business asset. It wins the approval of the person receiving your letter, and while he is in this frame of mind your letter is read.

The same reasoning applies to any other job of printing. Neatness, the right weight and kind of paper, the color of the ink, the selection of the type, all play an important part in the production of dividend printing.

We are equipped to give you that kind of printing. Let us prove it to you.

ANTIOCH LOSES; WILMOT RETAINS INTER-COUNTY LEAD

Silver Lake Defeats Somers in Sunday Afternoon Game

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

The Formation of Coal
When we burn wood in such a manner that little air gets to it, we have an almost all-carbon product—charcoal. Exactly in this way did mother nature produce our coal. Millions of years' accumulations of leaves and vegetable matter and the resulting weight, together with the earth's heat, turned this matter into coal. However, more gas is retained in coal than in charcoal.

BANG!

Bang goes a tire—right in the middle of a hot day—along a dusty road, miles from town. "Only got 3,000 miles out of that blankety-blank casing—wish I had that dealer by the neck..."

But wait a minute, Mister Motorist—look at that tread—ground off, flat as a pancake—know what that means?

Simply this—front wheels, out of line, will wear down tire treads as though they were held against a grindstone. The best tires in the world can't stand that very long.

By the way, how are your wheels? Perfectly true? Or had you better let us check 'em up? Our inspection is given free—and cheerfully, too.

Dyes Used to Change Colorings of Flowers

Painting the lilies is now an established fact, thanks to scientific research. Cut flowers have been colored artificially for some time past, but most common dyes are poisonous to the flowers and make them wilt almost immediately. Now, according to Dr. R. B. Harvey of the Minnesota agricultural experiment station, some brilliant, nonpoisonous dyes have been discovered, Popular Science Monthly reports.

Sweet peas, for example, are colored a brilliant blue five minutes after the newly cut stems are placed in a water solution of the dye. Lilies and carnations are also colored by the new dyes.

It is also found that flowers so dyed behave somewhat like photographic plates, and that miniature portraits, initials or messages may be imprinted by light upon the dyed petals.

Milk for Soldiers

In the interests of the agriculture of his country, the Czech soldier will in the future be called upon to fight on milk instead of the traditional black coffee of the old Austro-Hungarian empire. It is estimated that the army will drink 75,000 liters of milk a day for breakfast. This measure has been adopted primarily to help the farmer, but perhaps the soldier will not object. He will at least know what he is getting, whereas his former guesses at the actual constituents of the army coffee varied from dried turnips and mangolds to acorns. It is said to have tasted like all three.

STORY FROM THE START

Capt. Lion Fellowes' American merchant ship is sunk by a British frigate off Portugal in the War of 1812. Fellowes' life is saved by an English-speaking girl, who conceals her identity. Fellowes goes to Lisbon where he meets an acquaintance, Capt. Chater of the American ship True Bounty, who offers him a berth as a mate, but knowing Chater is disloyal in trading with the enemy, he refuses. He meets the girl who saved his life, Cara Inglepin, daughter of the owner of True Bounty. She is bound for home and induces Fellowes to sail as mate. He is in love with Cara. The vessel is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Captain Collishaw. Fellowes is taken aboard the Badger or a "pressed" man. Madened at what he believes is Cara's and Chater's treachery he strikes Collishaw, who orders him a hundred lashes with the "cat." Fellowes' hatred of the three becomes an obsession. Off New York Fellowes escapes from the Badger. He seizes a plot in a meeting to be held at Chater's home and gathers a company of militia to circumvent the plotters. In a fight between the militia and British sailors Collishaw escapes. At Chater's home Fellowes finds Cara, her father and Chater. Fellowes scoffs at the girl's denial of conniving at his kidnapping.

A sneeze from Miss Inglepin—under whose nose the duenna was burning feathers—attracted Sopher's attention to the couch.

"I trust the lady is uninjured?" he asked, with a suspicious glance at Fellowes' companions.

"She fainted. An excess of—shall we say contrition, Mr. Inglepin?"

"An excess of abominable misusage," flared her father. "What woman wouldn't faint after such a night? A pitched battle outside her windows—a mangled body before her eyes—naked men forcing themselves into her presence!"

"You overlook a period of captivity in the hands of her country's enemies," remarked Fellowes. "And I must add still another to your list of outrages. 'Twill be necessary to search her, as I have said."

"You'd miss no chance to humiliate her," returned Inglepin. "'Tis to be expected, sir."

Yet, for all his bluster, Fellowes detected in the merchant's bearing an aspect of relief. Chater, too, resumed his position by the mantel-piece, a gleam of derision in his greenish eyes. Could it be that they had no documentary evidence to conceal, and accepted the threat of search as admission his case against them would collapse without it? His lips tightened; his voice hardened.

"Send a man for Mrs. Rhodes, Nimrod."

"She's outside. She came up from the village when she heard some of the men were hurt."

"Have her in. I want her to search these women."

Sopher hung up a window.

"Corporal Eames! Ask Mrs. Rhodes to be good enough to step inside."

She bustled in the door, and stood for a moment, blinking her eyes at the company.

"A regular party," she commented. "Wanli, squire, I see ye lost yer shirt. Must have been a real battle, by all accounts. What's wrong with the gal, that?"

"She'll be all right," Fellowes answered. "I want you to search her, Mrs. Rhodes. The Portuguese woman, too."

Mrs. Rhodes planted herself in front of the sofa, arms akimbo.

"And what do I search 'em for?" she demanded.

"Papers. Anything, except the clothes they wear—and make certain no documents are concealed in seams or pockets."

"Leave 'em to me," the widow returned briskly. "And clear out all these menfolks."

As Fellowes herded captives and captors into the hall, she was already at her task, closing the doors that connected with the dining-room, her lips moving in prayer.

Sopher dropped back beside Fellowes, a worried look in the lawyer's horsey face.

"I'm not entirely positive as to the legality of these measures, Lion," he remarked confidentially. "If we find nothing—"

"Man, I saw Miss Inglepin coming out of British headquarters in Lisbon with Lord Wellington—talking treason. It words mean anything. I saw her exchanging documents with Collishaw in Chater's cabin—and was I cramped by Collishaw simply because he needed another hand? Use your wits, Nimrod!"

"Tis my wits tell me we must have documentary proof of all that," the lawyer retorted doggedly. "But argument will carry us no whither. Do you search Inglepin, and I will take Chater."

Their prisoners submitted with an ill grace, both, however, in no wise disturbed seriously—which wasn't odd, for nothing of moment was found on either of them. A search of the house produced a quantity of correspondence, and a map of the country showing the rough division of political sentiment; but not a line of matter more offensive than was openly preached in every Federalist newspaper.

Descending the stairs, very mournfully, they encountered Mrs. Rhodes.

"Your confidence does you honor, sir," she acknowledged gratefully. "And oh, Captain Fellowes—"

"Don't ye talk to him, Miss Cara," Chater interrupted. "I'll thank ye to get out o' my house, and stay out. Fellowes. Ye ain't got no excuse for bidin' a minute. I'll have the law on ye, if ye bother me ag'in."

"Try the law, you fool," Fellowes retorted contemptuously. "I'm done with it."

Passing out the parlor door he heard Cara Inglepin catch her breath, and understood she was shocked anew at the spectacle of his scarred back. But he was puzzled that this sign of remorse should inspire him with pity rather than exultation. He resolved to root out all pity from his heart, lest it undermine the strength of his hatred.

Fellowes awakened slowly, conscious of an unaccustomed sense of luxury. Sunshine was warm in his face, soft linen caressed his body. It was very different from the berth-deck of the Badger. He was in his own room at the Manor. A suit of clothes hung on a chair, all brushed and neat. Towels were draped on a rack. Evidently, some one had been busy putting a disused house in order while he slept. He learned who that some one was when the Widow Rhodes' voice drifted in to him through a door that stood ajar.

"Come right in, Nimrod. If he ain't up yet, it's time he was rized. A man can't more'n sleep the clock 'round in comfort."

Fellowes slid out of bed, chuckling, languidly satisfied. The world seemed good after twenty-four hours' rest. And he was home. He strode to the window, and the world turned gloomy in a moment. Beyond the maples, and the creek beds and the creek, itself, he saw the lane winding from Chater's house to the South Country road, and rolling along in a shower of dust a cumbersome post-chaise. While he watched, it lurched around a corner and vanished under the thick leafage of the trees lining the main road.

His face was so grim that when Sopher entered the room the lawyer nodded understandingly.

"Good morning, Lion, good morning, my dear fellow!" he exclaimed with a patent effort at cheerfulness. "You are the better for a proper sleep, I see. And watching our—ah—antagonists' departure. Returning to the city, I believe. Let us hope, a thought chastened by their experience."

"You may hope it," snapped Fellowes, beginning to dress. "I don't. They are on their way to do whatever they arranged with Collishaw."

"Oh, my dear Lion! You are unreasonable. We have no evidence—"

"We have plenty of evidence. What we require is a method of exploiting it. I think Joshua Inglepin is the man for my purpose. If he is, and sees it, we'll lay the story before the federal authorities—and the governor. Is Jeff Tiggle still in the village?"

"Yes, he waited on the possibility you might wish his services."

"Send word to the General Armstrong we'll drive west in an hour. Have you any money for me? Enough to buy a ship?"

United States Takes High Rank in Healing

At the beginning of the Nineteenth century, according to Doctor Osier, there were only three medical schools in the United States and only two general hospitals. Students who desired a better education than they could receive locally were forced to go abroad.

There were only a few medical journals in circulation in this country and almost no American medical books had been published. Around the middle of the century, many new medical schools were founded, but their standards were low and the education they gave was poor.

The reformation started in Harvard shortly after President Elliot assumed office in 1830 and quickly spread to the other medical schools of the country, stirring them all to new life and activity. We have now eighty medical

"How matters it what we believe—or others? There'll be talk, and people will say Inglepin and his daughter are disloyal. But that is said already. And talk is not legal evidence."

Mrs. Rhodes, listening to their debate, struck in swiftly:

"I dunno 'bout what other folks'll believe, but I can tell ye right now Nimrod Sopher, Miss ain't happy oved what she's done—or ain't done. She didn't want for me to take that letter, not one bit."

"Ah! I think I'll return it to her," Fellowes said, and walked down the hall to the parlor door.

"Come in," Cara Inglepin answered his knock.

She was sitting on the sofa as when he had first seen her, drinking a glass of wine. The duenna was beside her, dumbly protective. Her father and Chater, talking restrainedly in a far corner, met Fellowes with frankly hostile glances.

"Is it necessary for you to annoy us further, sir?" demanded Inglepin.

Fellowes ignored the question.

"I regret we felt obliged to take this from you, ma'am." He placed the letter in the listless hand she put out for it. "You have my apologies for the intrusion. I am confident Captain Collishaw is too honorable a man to have intended it should be used to cover a political intrigue."

The startled look she gave him was his reward.

"Your confidence does you honor, sir," she acknowledged gratefully. "And oh, Captain Fellowes—"

"Don't ye talk to him, Miss Cara," Chater interrupted. "I'll thank ye to get out o' my house, and stay out. Fellowes. Ye ain't got no excuse for bidin' a minute. I'll have the law on ye, if ye bother me ag'in."

HISTORY'S MYSTERIES

Unsolved Riddles That Still Puzzle
Authorities Here and Abroad

The Turkish Beauty

WHO was she—this beauty from the harem of the sultan? Was her real name Despina Davidowitch Storch, or was her true identity hidden behind the aliases of Madame Nestle, the Baroness de Belleville, Madame Hesketh or Madame Davidowitch, all of which titles she used at various parts of her brief but eventful career? What was her mission in the United States? Why did she flit from capital to capital, picking up bits of gossip, when she had apparently no way of communicating either with Berlin or Constantinople? Finally, what was the cause of her mysterious and sudden death just at the moment when she seemed to be on the point of giving some of her secrets to the world?

These, and a number of other secrets connected with the life of the woman known to the members of the United States secret service as the "Turkish Beauty" will probably remain unanswered, unless some one familiar with the inner workings of the German war office during the World War decides to make his knowledge public. Then, and then only, will the real truth be known about Madame Storch—one of the most beautiful spies who ever tried to pry military and diplomatic secrets from the archives of foreign powers.

Even before the outbreak of the war, Madame Storch had been a familiar figure at European watering places, in the cafes of the capitals and in other districts frequented by men in uniform. Rumor credited her with having been the heroine of a dozen love affairs, the cause of a score of duels. But it was not until after the invasion of Belgium that the Turkish beauty was suspected of being implicated in diplomatic intrigues aimed directly at the peace and safety of foreign powers. In September, 1914, she was indiscreet enough to be seen in the company of German agents in Madrid and, from that time on, she was a marked figure—though her apparently inexhaustible supply of money and the radiant charm of her smile saved her time and again from actual arrest. Though she usually avoided the countries actually at war, she was seen on more than one occasion in London and Rome, always slipping through the fingers of the authorities just as they appeared to be closing upon her. In Madrid and Lisbon, in Geneva and Copenhagen, she maintained coteries of friends who kept her supplied with information which she considered valuable and finally, when Europe became a trifle too warm for her, Madame Storch decided to try her smile upon America, sailing for New York by way of Havana.

From Cuba she attempted to go through the Panama canal but, after her trunk had been stored in the hold of the vessel she had selected, she was informed that her passage had been cancelled by order of the State department at Washington. Indignant, she demanded to know the reason for the order, only to be told that she was regarded "with suspicion" by the American government and, under the circumstances, could not be allowed to pass through the Canal Zone.

In spite of this rather direct hint on the part of the State department, Madame Storch metaphorically tossed her shapely head, clenched her teeth, and set sail for New York. There, rather to her surprise, she was not openly molested, but she was conscious of the fact that her every movement was watched by government agents attached either to the secret service or to the Department of Justice. Even a short stay in Washington failed to produce any open interference on the part of the government operatives but, when the Turkish beauty left the capital and went directly to Key West—with the evident intention of leaving the country and probably taking some important secrets with her—she was taken into custody and brought back to New York to await official action regarding her deportation.

Internment followed the disclosures of another woman who had been seen in company with Madame Storch and the Turkish spy was sent to Ellis Island, pending the formal order which would send her to France, where she was wanted in connection with a number of "leaks" in official circles. On the eve of her departure and while it was freely whispered in official circles that there would soon be "some big news about the German spy system in the United States," Madame Storch succumbed to a brief illness.

Official statements issued at the time declared that there was not the least suspicion of suicide or foul play, but the coincidence of the death of the Turkish beauty only a few hours before she was scheduled to have a personal and intimate talk with officials of the State department and the Department of Justice, added the final touch of mystery to the career of one of the most remarkable figures of the war.

Soldiers' Worst Foe

Pneumonia was the greatest cause of death from disease in the World War. More than 40,000 died of this disease. Of these probably 25,000 deaths resulted from the influenza pneumonia pandemic which swept through every camp and cantonment in this country and caused thousands of deaths in the expeditionary forces.

Guatemala

Scene in the Highlands of Guatemala.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

GUATEMALA, which has recently had a boundary dispute with its neighbor, Honduras, is one of the most progressive of the group of states that lies between Mexico and the Isthmus of Panama.

Three days' delightful steaming from New Orleans through the Gulf of Mexico and the western Caribbean takes one to the sun-kissed shores of Guatemala, where stately palms, stirred by perfume-laden breezes, wave in greeting.

The steady increase of American and other interests has opened one of the loveliest countries in the world, and the building of railroads is placing within easy reach the enjoyment of its natural beauties.

Most of the railroads are controlled by Americans. From Puerto Barrios, on the Caribbean, the northern road runs a distance of 224 miles up to the city of Guatemala, the capital. From here starts the Guatemala Central road, extending a distance of 74 miles to the port of San Jose, on the Pacific. The Guatemala Central railroad also has several hundred miles of road throughout the country. Recently a branch line 33 miles in length was put in service running from the city of Retalhuleu to Ayutla, on the border of Mexico, connecting directly with the Pan-American road there. It is now possible to travel by railway from New York city to the capital of Guatemala.

This country was for centuries the home of the Maya-Quiche Indians, whose history reads like a romance. Cortez, however, after the conquest of Mexico, desiring to extend his power over the country further south, in 1522 sent an invading army under the command of Pedro de Alvarado to subjugate this powerful race.

Leaving Mexico with some 300 Spaniards and a great number of Mexican Indians, Alvarado fought his way into Guatemala, overcoming all who opposed him, and finally, on July 25, 1524, founded the first Spanish capital under the name of Santiago de los Caballeros (Saint James of the Cavaliers). And so it happened that, in a beautiful valley at the foot of two great volcanoes, "Aguia" and "Fuego" (meaning water and fire), was firmly established the Spanish rule which was to last for nearly three centuries—that is, until September 15, 1821, when Guatemala became an independent republic.

First City Twice Destroyed.

This first Spanish city was, however, 20 years later, almost completely wiped out of existence by a great flood of water which poured down upon it from Agua. There has been much controversy among scientists as to the origin of this flood. Some claim it to have been the result of a cloudburst, others that it came from the crater of the supposedly extinct volcano. The former supposition seems to be most plausible.

The few survivors fled down the valley and at a distance of three miles chose the site of a new city, and, in 1542, courageously founded a second capital, now known as Antigua. In time it grew to have a population of 100,000 inhabitants, and became a great center of learning, with many universities, monasteries, and over a hundred churches rich in works of art. Although many times threatened by earthquake shocks more or less severe, it flourished until July 29, 1773, when, without warning, in one minute the proud city was leveled to the ground.

Again the survivors of this second calamity sought refuge farther away from the threatening volcano, and, at a distance of 35 miles, finally settled in the beautiful valley of Las Vacas. Here, at an altitude of 5,000 feet above the sea, surrounded on all sides by soft green hills, behind which loom the imposing heads of three volcanoes, lies the city of Guatemala, the present capital, founded by the courageous survivors of one of the greatest calamities in the history of any land.

This typical city of Spanish America is a most interesting and charming place to visit. Coming directly from the land of skyscrapers, the first impression is, with its low white buildings, is particularly attractive. Here and there is a house tinted a bright pink or a vivid blue, thus varying the monotony of the dazzling white and lending a sort of holiday look, as though the houses had put on their best gown to welcome the stranger.

The climate is one of perpetual spring, the average temperature being about 70 degrees. The summer months bring the heavy rains.

With a population of about 120,000, the city of Guatemala is laid out on a scale, with broad avenues, fine parks, and handsome buildings. It is one of the best-lighted cities in America.

Scenes in City of Guatemala.

In the center of the city is the Plaza de Armas, with its pretty park, where stands a handsome statue of Columbus. This plaza becomes the rendezvous of fashion three or four evenings of the week, when an exceptionally fine band plays. There also each morning at ten o'clock a company of the President's Guard of Honor parades. Most interesting scenes are also witnessed on the nights of any national holiday or church festival.

The Indians come in from the surrounding country early in the day and install themselves in picturesque groups, selling native sweets, coconut water, and beautiful fruits. As night comes on they build fires which illumine their dark faces and brilliant costumes. The trees are hung with gay lanterns and at one side is stretched a great canvas upon which a free moving-picture show is in progress.

The band plays, and between times is heard the rather weird music of the marimba. This native instrument has a peculiar charm and, in spite of a certain metallic sound, not unlike a xylophone, when played in the open air has very beautiful tones.

The cathedral, which stands facing the plaza, with its two square towers, is a fine example of the churches of Spanish America. A curious but not unpleasing effect is obtained in the interior by the blue-and-white ceiling. All the churches of the city are rich in wood carvings, paintings, and antique altar silver saved from the ruins of Antigua.

Throughout the country wherever the churches have suffered from earthquakes and the crumbling towers are no longer strong enough to bear the weight of the heavy bells, these are hung out of doors under a pointed thatched roof held by bamboo poles, which adds greatly to the picturesque quality of the landscape.

The Teatro Colon, the national theater, is a building of which any city would be proud. It is copied from the Church of the Madeleine in Paris. It is generously subsidized by the government, and good operatic and dramatic companies come from Italy, Spain, and Mexico. Bull fighting is, of course, the favorite amusement, and there is a good bull ring.

To the west of the city stretches the broad avenue of La Reforma, a beautiful drive several miles in length, shaded by great trees and containing some fine statues, the most important being those of Gen. Rufino Barrios and Gen. Garcia Granados.

Antigua, by the Volcanoes.

In strange contrast to the modern city of Guatemala is the old ruined city of Antigua, well worth a visit. It is preferable to ride, although one can drive. The earlier the start after sunrise the better, for the road as far as the Indian town of Mexico presents a most attractive scene, as hundreds of Indians are jogging into the city heavily laden with great loads of earthen pottery, fresh fruits, and vegetables for the market. Mexico is picturesquely situated, nestling at the foot of the mountains and commanding an extended view of the great Guatemala valley, with the city almost at one's feet, and in the distance the sparkling blue waters of lovely Lake Amatitlan.

Leaving the high road one turns into a narrow defile, and up and down hill follows an old Indian trail, sometimes completely shut in, again widening with glimpses of the mountains as range after range rises to the imposing heads of three great volcanoes—Aguia, Fuego, and Acatenango.

Nestled in a broad, fertile valley, the climate of which is unsurpassed, nothing can exceed this city of the past in solemn grandeur. Watched over by the giant Agua, which rises in one magnificent unbroken sweep to a height of over 13,000 feet, street after street stretches dazzlingly white in the brilliant sunshine. Not a sound breaks the silence which hangs like a pall over the place, and even the modern town of some 30,000 inhabitants seems dead, and a strange hush lies over all.

The quaint little pink hotel, with its flower-filled patio, the air heavy with the scent of roses, orange blossoms, and starchy-eyed jasmine, is in keeping with the atmosphere of romance which pervades the place.

His Three-Year Contract

By LEETE STONE

(Copyright.)

ROMANOWSKY, trunk and bag manufacturer, and Ned Barton, salesman, both signed a three-year contract which endowed the latter with $5,000 a year and commissions. This contract was a bright one to Barton because it meant bright things.

Ned and Sheila Raymond loved each other; were engaged, but Ned so far had not saved enough money to buy the cozy cottage in lovely little Beechwood Park, furnish it, and have enough remaining to take care of such casualties as sickness and accident.

The night the contract was signed Ned and Sheila joyously realized that they could be married in a year.

A prosperous territory, assigned to Ned, yielded highly satisfactory sales for the first three months. Romanowsky was pleased. Then the pendulum of business unexpectedly swung from the peak of prosperity to the valley of depression. Ned's sales shrank to the proportions of a circus skeleton. It dawned on Romanowsky that he had made a mistake and he commenced to search assiduously for a loophole of escape.

He called Ned Barton in for a conference, hoping the salesman would prove reasonable in the matter of a modified contract; or, better yet, he willing to sign off until better times. Romanowsky was pacific and used soft, conciliatory smiles; but Ned was generally adamant. A contract was a contract. That love nest for two in Beechwood Park was not to be so easily snatched from his grasp.

So Romanowsky tried another tack. Since pleading and a mild brand of threatening conviction, the manufacturer resorted to stratagem. He switched Ned Barton's territory from Broadway and vicinity to the wide open spaces—the mesas of New Mexico. Removed him from the land where a shaving case was a necessity, to the land where a bald-faced Pinto and a Navajo blanket constituted the entire traveling accessories of the population. It was a territory that, to consult the census, boasts about three individuals to the square mile; two Indians and one white man.

The wily manufacturer hoped that sleeping between sections of a newspaper on hard station benches rather than in luxurious hotels, solitude, lack of orders, and distance, would, instead of lending enchantment to his salesman's dreams, drown them in the desuetude of desert life. He hoped that hardship and dearth of business might discourage Ned and bring him back begging for a termination or modification of the contract.

But Ned left the office with a luminous smile and his quota of leather goods samples, saying:

"Fine, fine!" He gripped Romanowsky's hand cordially, "I've always wanted to see the great Southwest."

Ned forwarded a meticulous, accurate expense account from Frozen Dog, Rattlesnake Ranch, and White Mesa, which caused Romanowsky to tear his hair. Long motor and buckboard jaunts between settlements cost real money. And Romanowsky could see Ned's smile.

The salesman's suave manner, in most cases, won the hearts of the hard-boiled denizens of the open country. Once, however, on a chartered skip from Sfeer's Head to Plute Pass, where Ned had but little time to catch a limited train, he had to win the consent of one Cactus Cal to drive him over it. A buckboard as the road was impossible for motoring. Cactus named a price four times too high. Ned could picture Romanowsky when the figures decorated his expense account.

It was dusk as they started. The road was a series of deep ruts, muddy slides, boulders and sloshy puddles. Cactus drove the broncho team like a madman. Ned could not help betraying apprehension. The worst of it was that he felt Cactus Cal knew he was scared.

"Fraid I'll dump you out, ain't you?" satirically spoke Cal.

Ned silently acknowledged that the gentleman spoke the truth; but he determined to try a little psychology as a last resort. Reaching into his mind for all the expetives stored there, Ned found some he-had forgotten.

"Afraid, am I? Why, you—blatently blank," and a few more. "Now look here! You can toss me or dump me into the mud because you're bigger than I am; but if you do—I say, if you do, that stricken valley you live in will be turned into the hottest pot of trouble for you by morning that you ever saw. Now let's be safe and sane and get that train."

"Aw," Cal weakened. "I s'pose you're some government fella, eh? I was jest kiddin' yuh a little."

That expense item arriving, finally, Ned bowed Romanowsky. He called in his lawyer and waited.

"He'll drive me to bankruptcy. How can I break the contract?"

"You can't! You'll have to buy him off—cheaper in the end."

Ned Barton got to the office a week later. He wore a sunny smile and his plump face beamed. They talked for five hours; that is, Romanowsky talked; Ned listened, occasionally saying firmly, "Seven thousand cash." Worn out, Romanowsky reached for his checkbook. Ned's smile widened. Sheila and the cozy cottage were certainties now.

Extending the check, Romanowsky muttered, "Well, let's have lunch."

"Sure thing," said Ned, "if you'll pay for it."

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

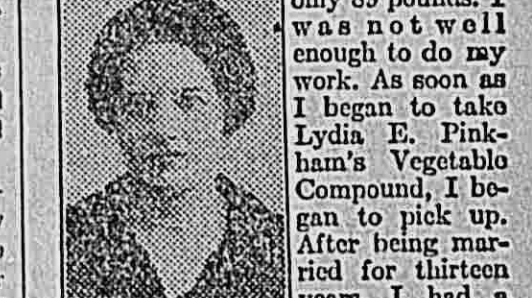

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. In thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drug stores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

MILL WORKER BENEFITED

Picked Up After Taking Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable
Compound

Towanda, Pa.—"I was working in a silk mill and got so tired and rundown that I weighed only 89 pounds. I was not well enough to do my work. As soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to pick up. After being married for thirteen years, I had a baby boy and the next year I had another boy who now weighs 37 pounds and is healthy as a bear. The Vegetable Compound has helped me in a dozen ways and I hope others will try it too."
